“ Dear family,

I'm sorry that other circumstances prevented me from attending Becky's memorial service. I just want to say again what a sweet lady she was. Our world becomes such a small place when by divine appointment we meet others with whom we are connected in some way. Becky was a great encouragement to me when my mom first went to live at Madison rehab. I felt like I had a friend who could help me understand all that was going on. After she became sicker, we began to pray in earnest for her healing. She has now experienced the ultimate healing and is walking with Jesus. :) She loved to listen to Garfield and to hear a good word!! She was already being missed when she went back home to be with her family but I know how much happier she must have been to be able to spend her last days on this earth with you all because she loved you very much. As you go through these next hours, days, months and years my prayer is that the precious memories of Becky will see you through until you meet again. May the Lord bless you all.##imported-begin##Debbie jones##imported-end##

“ I am a minister wishing to share a thought from the bible in your time of loss. Isa 24:33 says "no resident will say I am sick." John 5:25-30 brings Jesus words to mind when he said " all those in the memorial tombs will hear his voice and come out." May the peace of God be with you.##imported-begin##Gary Puckett##imported-end##
