“ The memories I have with B are far to many to even begin to list. I know that where ever I was is where he wanted to be. And he was there no matter the situation or the circumstances if I called he was on his way. If he wasnt there already. I couldnt of asked for a better friend. He was always himself 100% all the time. The adventures, the ups, the downs, the heartaches, the triumphs, the sadness, the Joy's, the wrongs ,the rights, and even the fist fights we had each others backs. He wasnt just my best friend he was my brother . Fly high Bigboy. see ya on the other side. If I'd known the day I left the hospital was going to be the last time I was gonna see him I think I would have hugged his neck a little longer. But he would of told me to man up and how how having my little girl Lyric had made me soft. I LOVE YOU B. Dance a jig with the angels for me.

“ I was blessed to have a friend in Brandon Hughey. No one could ask for a more devoted friend, brother or son. Wherever we stood at any given time, we stood together.

He was always steadfast and true.

Brandon's sense of adventure always delighted those who were lucky enough to catch sight of him as he rode by. On a four wheeler, golf cart, diesel truck or electric scooter, you could catch his tail as he whisked on by towards his next adventure.

I'll miss you Brandon. I'm honored to have had your friendship. Until we meet again.

“ Brandon is my nephew and as a child he spent a lot of time with us. As most of you know, Brandon was always a “big boy”. We were pretty active in basketball and Brandon loved to play also. During this time, I coached the boys basketball team and Brandon played on our team. It would never fail that when his parents were out of town we would end up at the emergency room. After that, Brandon would show up with an insurance card and a note from his mom giving permission to be treated. We had a lot of good times and we will forever treasure those memories. Rest In Peace “B”.
