“ I am greatly saddened by the news of Charlene's death. We go back a long time - to Midway kindergarten. On the playground, she and I made mud pies and they looked so appetizing that I attempted several times to eat them. But the ever vigilant teacher intervened and discouraged it. After high school, our paths/careers took a different route: she entered the nursing field and I, the ministerial ranks . Yet, the commonality of both callings was to benefit the common good. Years later, while attending a professional, pastoral program at Central State Hospital in Milledgeville, I bumped into Charlene, where she was working as a psychiatric nurse. Later, periodic high school reunions enabled me to connect with her more frequently. To her four daughters and the extended family, I offer my sincere prayers for your comfort during this time of great bereavement. Sincerely, Dr. Charles Wm. Brown (AKA C.W.), Maryville, TN.
