“ Bubba, it's been a lifetime ago since we were all growing up in Milledgeville, but I'm so sorry to see this news of Debbie. Reading the tributes, it doesn't surprise me that she stayed the smiling, positive and wonderful person that I remember from so long ago. You two were two peas in a pod. The photos posted here are so nice to see of your family. Best wishes to you for peace and comfort in the months to come and beyond.

“ Who knew we would be at this place like this? As I shared the other night when we bumped into each other in the hospital, my prayers are with you. God will provide the comfort you need. Rejoice in her faith and that God has made her whole again. When the tears come, try to dry them with laughter and smiles remembering the great times and the impact she made on you.

When I think of Debbie, I think of a person who accepted people and loved people for who they are. She was ALWAYS smiling and laughing. I loved how she would look up and beam at me with the biggest smile. It always warmed my heart.

*Continued prayers for you all in the coming days.

“ I can remember sharing our presence together in high school and outside school grounds and I've never seen so many people love a single human being so much. She was the sweetest person, always smiling and always helping others. I can't remember a single time that she was mad or if she was a little upset you would never know because if she was spoken to, she would have that sweet smile and caring personality out shining everything else that may be going on in her life. I will always cherish her as a friend.

“ Levi, Cody, Travis and Jessica

My deepest condolences in the death of your mother. I never had the opportunity to meet her, however she and your Dad raised four wonderful children.

During this difficult time hold to the wonderful memories.

“ Watching you pull the kids around the ball field and how you interacted with them, i knew you were special. Then my daughter met the sweetest young man and fell in love. I am so happy she married into your family. You will always be missed. We'll make sure Avery learns all about you and pray she grows up as Godly as you.
