“ The first time I met nanny was on the side of the road riding with Jessica, nanny was working on her flowers. She said “who are you” and Jessica told her who I was. Then Brian started doing some work around the house and nanny would always ask who’s that man up there at your house. Then bday parties came and nanny asked me to take those cats away from her house, and I did! I would mess with her and tell her I was bringing the cats back and she would say “heck no you ain’t”. Nanny was so welcoming like I was family! I will miss her and loved her so much!
