“ *Deepest sympathy:
The Rose Still Grows Beyond The Wall*

*Near shady wall a rose once grew
Budded and blossomed in God's free light,
Watered and fed by morning dew,
Shedding its sweetness day and night.*

*As it grew and blossomed fair and tall,
Slowly rising to loftier height
It came to a crevice in the wall,
Through which there shone a beam of light.*

*Onward it crept with added strength
With never a thought of fear or pride
It followed the light through the crevice length
And unfolded itself on the other side*

*The light, the dew, the broadening view,
Were found the same as they were before
And it lost itself in beauties new Breathing its fragrance more and more*

*Shall claim of death cause us to grieve
And make our courage faint or fall
Nay, let us faith and hope receive
The Rose Still Grows Beyond the Wall*

*Scattering fragrance far and wide
Just as it did in days of yore
Just as it did on the other side
Just as it will forever more###imported-begin##Robert and Joan

“ If you could have peered into my heart during Mom’s last days you’d have seen me screaming and pleading with God to have mercy and just take her. In my sorrow it felt like I was beating on the locked doors of Heaven. Still, I prayed and wept then scolded myself for my impatience. Why didn’t He hear me?

I know now that He did hear me, but chose to answer my prayer in His time. Like the labor pains of child birth that are quickly forgotten we stand in awe of the beautiful prize. Mom surely labored to die and received her heavenly prize, but she also delivered to us an eternal legacy; no matter what it looks or feels like; God does answer prayer in his own time and for His own purpose; for that I am so grateful. I love you Mom. k###imported-begin##Kathi##imported-end##
