“ As a mom of a nonverbal child, my heart breaks for you all. I feel this grief along side you. I hope in time, a deep peace rests upon your heart in the knowing that your beautiful son’s soul is so free. This life is hard and it’s unpredictable and I hope you go easy on yourselves. Sending love and healing to you and your family.

“ I will never forget you sweet Jeffrey. It was such an honor and a true joy to teach you. Any time I see a score board, the number 100, use my counter, open a U-Line book, or encounter a particularly advanced word- I'll think of you. Your mind and soul were beautiful. You'll be so missed.

“ I am so sorry for your loss. I didn't know Jeffrey except from the news. I know as difficult as it was for those that searched, prayed and watched..it is at least a million times harder for you. There is no blame. God needed him more than you...for whatever the reason, that you may never understand. At the holidays, communities from all over came together for one reason...to find Jeffrey. A love for someone most have never met. People prayed together from all walks of life, again, for one boy named Jeffrey. We helped each other to surround or somehow prop not just his loved ones, but each other up. Maybe there were children that needed to feel love from a parent because in their minds..they didnt. Maybe it was for a parent to realize how important and what a precious gift it is to be given that child. But one thing is for sure...the day Jeffrey was born, God already knew when he would need him back in Heaven. I know there will be years of tears for you. But please, and I pray that you reflect back and realize all of what we witnessed, and happened to families and these communities during your sorrow, God had already chosen Jeffrey to do, from the time he was born. In time, your wonderful good memories of him will take over. I know you may not see it yet...but it will happen. What a HUGE TASK God placed for Jeffrey! God knew it was time. What a WONDERFUL, STRONG, BOY Jeffrey was. His reward is in Heaven. God Bless you and many prayers and thoughts in these coming days.

“ I am deeply deeply sorry for the loss of your son. I pray that you all will find rest in the arms of the Lord and call upon him for strength. We must try our hardest to accept that he knows our plans and that is of hope to carry on. I can't imagine the hurt you all are feeling right now, however I can feel that your baby is now dancing, speaking, and laughing with joy alongside our maker in paradise!!! Hold on to your faith and know that you will one day be with your baby again. Much love to you Jeffery, fly high baby!

“ I had the pleasure of teaching Jeffery in 7th grade. He made me smile and laugh every day. He was smart and always excited about learning. He loved numbers and always loved to come to the board to pick the correct number. One of my fondest memories of Jeffery is when we took the students to a High School basketball game. During the game he was all smiles and would jump up and down all excited. We figured out that he was so excited because of the score board. He loved numbers and would always want to carry a timer around. I think to him the score board was a big timer. Jeffery would always be the first one to greet us in the morning. Him, his Mama and Grandma would always be waiting at the door when we opened it. He would always be pointing out words to them on a sign at our door. He also started giving me hugs, which made me smile because i knew he was comfortable with me and knew I I cared about him. I loved to see him happy and smiling. It was such a blessing to have known him and to love him. My heart is broken and I pray every day for Mama, Grandma and the family. Jeffery was truly loved! ❤️❤️❤️
