“ I miss my little brother...he would call me and say hey sis...how do you make Salmon patties or how do you make this...oh the memories ..but better still ...he has a new body ..no pain...my prayer was for God to heal him....or take him home out of his pain...God answered my prayer....Jerry was full of so many different cancers...I got to be with him several days last week ...stay most of day on Friday...I knew God would take him home soon...Strong man ...he went home early Monday morning...Now with our mom and his son Adam....whole again...

“ When I was a little girl daddy used to pick at me and tell me we had a “money tree” in our back yard. He did this because he said I was ALWAYS asking him for money for.. whatever little girls want. One day I asked him for some money and after telling me time and time again that money don’t grow on trees, this time he said yes to my request and instructed me to go pick some money off of the money tree in the back yard. To my surprise there was no such tree with said money. He inadvertently use this as an opportunity to teach me that the money, the tree, the idea of such just didn’t exist. Disappointed I really have this deep thought because I was not going to accept that it wasn’t true. Fast forward to another day and time, I learned how paper was made. (From trees 😊) I wasn’t sure if he was annoyed at my relentlessness or proud because I’d basically proved him wrong. Either way he told me, money did not grow on any of our trees. And that was that 😂😂😂🤔 I don’t know why I’ve remembered that but I’m glad I did. Great memory. Please share some of yours.

“ Jerry was a great neighbor and a good friend. I am going to miss our conversations at the store and his blowing the horn at me as he would pass by my house. Rest in peace my friend.
