“ Miss Jewell worked with my parents at Newtons Showroom for a number of years. She was the beautiful smiling lady that you saw when you walked through the front door and the cashier you paid when you left. She was the youthful voice you heard when you called to place an order or talk to a salesman. Mother called her the eternal teenager, because she was always so youthful and full of energy not to mention so beautiful. She loved her family and they were always the topic of her conversations. She and Dad spent many hours chatting at the front counter. The day my Dad died she told me she felt like she had lost a brother. I will never forget her kindness. To all of you I send my thoughts and prayers.
