“ I put this on my FB page but will paste it here for the family:
John Lamon was a wonderful friend, a lover of the outdoors, a patriot, an inspired teacher, a thoughtful colleague, and absolutely stone in love with his beautiful Theresa, who died with him. They will be missed. Many thoughts go to "the Chrises," whom I haven't met but whom I feel I know from the prideful stories shared by their parents. Thursday is National Teacher's Day. There was none better.

Also - I remember how tickled they both were when I showed up for his dissertation defense, and how proud they both were of his accomplishment. I have so many memories of them, but what sticks most is that sparkle that never faded when they looked at each other. They were honeymooners to the end.

“ Gonna miss these two so much, loved walking into the store and always wondering where miss Theresa was gonna be, she could always brighten up your day with her bright and bubbly spirit. And almost every time I rode by the store I'd see Mr John outside and he'd wave and smile. They were two of the kindest people you could ever meet, and they had an effect on everyone who met them. Never thought last Thursday would be the last time I'd eat a delicious scone and grab a Dr Pepper and hear miss Theresa wish me good luck and say "Go team!" As I was headed to my soccer game.
It won't be the same without them here.
Rest In Peace, can't wait to see y'all again one day!
