“ No amount of words can ever express the devastation of losing your child. Lin loved life, he loved people, most of all he loved his family. He was brought up in the church all his life and for this I am very proud. His love for his Lord carried him straight through those golden gates where we shall meet again one day and I shall once again hear my son say "I love you mama". What a joy.

Ms. Martin. Carolyn and I worked for Mr. Barry. We were trying to locate him when I discovered he had passed away. Mam, I am so sorry. He was an awesome man. He and I would talk of our kids and grandchildren. He spoke lovingly and dedicated of you. He stood up for us. He stood up for right. If we can ever help you in any way please call us. Thank you for such kind, loving words about my son. He was so very special. Of course I miss him daily but he and my mother (she died a few hours after Lin) are only about 6 miles away and I find such comfort in sitting by his earthly body and talking things over with him. I do miss and love my middle son so much but someday we will have a great reunion. Can't wait to see that smile of his again.
