“ We seldom encounter personalities that are larger than life itself yet so humble. Shaila-Aunty was one of those rare individuals to me. She was my other mother! Someone I had known since my childhood in India.

She lived an extraordinary life dedicated to her family, gracefully balancing societal expectations and bearing immense grief during challenging times.

She did all of this with poise, the kindest heart, and a beaming smile. Her innate ability to help anyone and everyone, going above and beyond to care for those around her, was truly remarkable.

She was outgoing, personable, and resilient and constantly challenged the status quo, drove improvement, and motivated others.

Shaila-Aunty was an outstanding cook, an avid traveler, religious, and compassionate. She raised amazing children and grandchildren, leaving us with a lifetime of cherished memories.

While nothing can make up for this loss, we can all draw inspiration from her example, spreading love with grace and remembering her for the warmth she brought into our lives.

Om Shanti! Jai Shri Krishna!
