The picture is Wayne and me at his house in the mid 1960s. He was one of my best friends, along with Lin, from age my age 7 to 19 when we headed in separate directions. Wayne was our Mr. Cool. I remember sitting up playing canasta with my Mom, Uncle Walter, and Wayne, until 2:00 am. He traveled to Arkansas in 1968 and stayed a week with me (Spring Break) as I wound down my senior year in HS there. And, being Wayne, he managed to shoot a hole in the ceiling of the apartment where I was staying. As usual, we had a good time. There was no one else like him. He was a good friend, and always funny. I spoke with him just a few weeks ago about "his" truck (my truck that he had wanted to buy). I was shocked to hear of his passing, I shall miss seeing him out and around his home and our short visits. Rest with God my old friend. Phyllis I am sorry for your loss. He'll keep Heaven in laughter and good repair.

“ He was truly someone who lit up a room. That smile and laugh was so unique. I remember Wayne from as far back as the Twilite, with a car load on the curb, and him being the life of the party, he was good at that. I remember him as a hard worker and a good carpenter. He always hollered when he saw me and I always asked him about Freddie. I shall remember him.

“ Wayne was always a good friend with a big smile that knew how to have a good time and help others. Him and my brother David English were good friends and David is real sick himself and wanted me to send his condolences to all friends and family. As well as me and my husband Dinky Knowles we thought a lot of Wayne ourselves. May you always Rip Wayne.
