“ Every time I saw Brother Havior, he always looked as if he had somewhere to go and something to do. Yet he never passed you by without saying hello or asking about your family. After that, he would begin a conversation about the Bible, history, or both. You might have thought he was in a rush to go somewhere, but he never missed an opportunity to tell about his God, his faith, and how it all came to be. He was the only man I knew who loved history as much as my husband, Sandy.

You are in our prayers at this time. May our God keep his eyes and heart on you during the rest of your journey on this side of the New World.
